I am an XM subscriber and have been almost since its inception. I pay for the service and love it. I like it b/c I don't have to listen to commercials all day long and when I'm on the road I don't have to change stations every half hour like regular radio b/c the same stations work coast to coast. I work in downtown Minneapolis and live in the suburbs and I'm excited about the possibility of traffic updates as I head to work. I think that the NAB's petition should be rejected. I agree with XM that this does relate to the First Amendment. I think siding with the NAB would be a bad precedent to set. Why not worry about the real issues and let XM provide whatever they want to for their paying customers. Tell the NAB to cry to someone else!
